- Whispered Secrets -

S Cool breezes whisper softly
 Leaves are still with quiet pleasure.
 The gentle rustling of leaves fall
 As secrets from your lips I treasure.

A Caught between wide open sky and
 Patterns of leaves on the ground below,
 Two leaves are hanging by one thread,
 Waiting for the cool wind to blow.

B Floating gracefully to the copper leaves
 That drape like bed sheets under the trees
 Suspended in air, drifting up to the sky,
 Zephyrs carry our secrets high.

Pno. Sunlight weaves into late afternoon,
 Winter's cold hands will take you away soon.
 Autumn's last leaves glaze the sky,
 Remembering the seasons of you and I.
